

IX. COMPUTER AND INTERNET USAGE

The library computers are provided to integrate electronic resources from informational networks to enhance and make available materials and resources the library does not have on site. Persons must abide by all copyright laws, restricting duplications of copyrighted software, and agree to all copyright laws.